22nd BATTERY HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

An annual dinner and meeting of the 22nd Field Battery C.A. was held at the armory on Thursday evening last. The invited guests being the mayor of Gleichen, Mr. N. T. Purcell, the president of the Gleichen Board of Trade, Mr. L. Culbert and Mr. J. Eggle, who acted as accompanist for the singing. A very tasty chicken dinner was served by Mrs. Clifford of the Ross Ten House, which was heartily enjoyed by all. The toast to His Majesty the King was drunk in the customary manner which was followed by the singing of "The God Save the King" which was greatly enjoyed and as an encore number rendered "There's an old fashioned house" in the time here.

The chairman then outlined the policy of the Battery for the coming year. He pointed out that unless they were all prepared to play the game of interest and that the last year's work must come to exist for lack of interest and unless sufficient money was willing to undertake these obligations they were liable to lose the battery. The major asked all those who were willing to undertake these obligations to stand up.

Every man in the room stood up and gave a cheer for the battery. The strength having given Gleichen for annual camp this year. Mr. J. J. Eggle then obliged with a piano solo and a few of the latest songs which were enjoyed by the band company.

Mr. L. Culbert, president of the Gleichen Board of Trade then gave a toast to the 22nd Field Battery. He told the members that the Board of Trade took a great interest in the battery and that the business men and citizens generally looked upon the battery as an asset and that they were glad having the band and were glad to give them every opportunity to give in military training at the battery and to give them every opportunity for recreational and social recreation. This toast was responded to by the battery commander.

NAMAKA NEWS (By our own Correspondent)

A meeting of the Namaka Tennis Club was held at the home of Mr. R. B. Behan, Wednesday evening, March 19th, at 8 o'clock. An election of officers was held when Mr. Alex. Lewis, who proved a very capable player for last year, tendered his resignation and Mr. Phil Watson was elected to fill that office for 1930. Miss Grace Scherer was re-elected as secretary-treasurer. Great credit is due Miss Scherer and Mr. Lewis for the efficient manner in which they handled the affairs of the club last year. At the close of the meeting a dance lunch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Bohan, also made was quite backed by the different artists of the village and community.

A social evening was given in the Oddfellows Hall on Saturday evening by the United Church congregation. Games were played for the first of many which a motion picture was shown by the Rev. Mr. Brundage of Strathmore, which was greatly enjoyed by the close of the picture show lunch was served 3 ythe ladies of the community.

The regular monthly meeting of the Namaka Ladies Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Brunner on Thursday. Quite a number were present at the meeting. Lunch was served by Mrs. Brunner.

Don't forget the motion pictures on Saturday evening, March 29th, to be given in the Oddfellows Hall under the auspices of the Ladies Aid. The sympathy of this village and community is extended to the death of Mrs. Jacob Martin in the death of their little son.

The Namaka C. G. T. are busy preparing a program for an entertainment of which will be announced later. The dance given by the Oddfellows on Friday evening was well attended and a good time reported by all.

A. Lewis passed through town on Sunday on a motor trip right at 4 o'clock, on a mountain standard time. Chas. Schafer of Cluny, called on Mr. F. K. talking over the battle home and historical records of this famous unit, and that every officer, N.C.O. and man must endeavor to live up to the high tradition set up by the original unit.

Mr. Eggle again obliged with a more new choruses when Lieut. R. D. Dolgemo, M. C. proposition was presented to the Town of Gleichen. He explained that Gleichen was the smallest town in the district to have a battery of artillery and everyone should endeavor to get behind the officers and make it a success. His wish was responded to by His Worship Mayor. He said he considered it a great honor to have the battery in the town and to respond to the toast of the Town of Gleichen. He said that it was a shame to have the battery in the town, to hear that there was a possibility of losing the town through the lack of interest but he thought that the enthusiasm displayed would lead for the future of the battery. He said the town looked to the battery to lead in a good many things, in patriotism, athletics, and decorum, and he hoped that the officers were behind the battery and wished it to be a success.

It was then decided that the anniversary would be on each year from 7 to 11 and that drills would be held every Wednesday from the first week in April.

During intermissions a program of musical numbers has been arranged for. These numbers were sung by Kathleen Green in Gleichen before her very much delighted with her performance. The children, Kathleen Green has already established her friendship and is sure to be greater with much applause.

Charman remembered, too, the first time her grandmother had been persuaded to ride in "that infernal contraption" as she called the car. It had taken much urging on the part of both Charman and the doctor, and it was not without misgivings that she at last consented to ride to Portland to see an oculist. She returned at supper time, bright-eyed with enthusiasm.

"It's like flying!" she exclaimed. "I felt like a bird, skimming along so fast. Why, when I remembered how long it took your grandfather and me to drive it, once in a dog's age, well, I just can't believe I've been gone, and got back as quickly as this!"

After that she needed no persuading when the doctor stopped to take her on his rounds; but of late years the rheumatism had been worse, and it seemed easier to sit in the shop window and "watch the world go by" as she quaintly put it.

Charman's reminiscences were interrupted by the sound of the doctor's car, and immediately after Grandma rapped a summons with Great-grandfather Davis's gold-headed cane which she kept near her for that purpose. The girl paused in the kitchen to set the kettle forward, and when she reached the front room Grandma was peering from the window.

"It's Jim Bennett, just gone by in a new car!" she announced eagerly. "He had that Clara Darling with him—the girl who's staying at the Osmonds'. I knew her by the hat. It's bright green—emerald green, I call it. I never saw its like in Wickfield, and no good'll come of it, mark my words!"

Charman laughed merrily and said: "It seems to have made an impression upon Jim! He escorted it to the church sociable last evening."

"And you never told me!" Grandma replied reproachfully; and added: "It's his mother's doings."

"That gorgeous hat?" asked Charman, who enjoyed teasing the old lady on occasions.

"You know well enough what I mean," retorted Grandma. "Jim's a good boy, but he's considerable under his mother's thumb, and she's set her heart on his making a good match. Well, there was a time, when your grandfather was living, that the Davises would have turned up their noses at a Bennett."

"Perhaps that day is not past," replied Charman, an amused smile lighting her blue eyes because she knew that this irate statement of her grandmother's wasn't exactly true. The Bennetts were as good as anybody.

Grandma looked up at her suspiciously. "You're not telling me," she began, when Charman laughed and answered the unvoiced question:

"Of course not! I wouldn't hurt his feelings for the world; but I'll confess Grandma, that if Jim should—well—pop the question, I'd suspect that he'd rehearsed the scene beforehand with his mother. There'd be no romance."

Grandma chuckled; then her face sobered.

"But he's a good boy," she repeated. "You might do worse, Charman, even with Sarah Bennett thrown in."

"And I might do better," responded Charman, opening a drawer of the highboy and straightening a spool of thread. "I'm planning to marry a million dollars, Grandma, and spend every penny on this old house. Besides, you've forgotten the green hat. It has cut me out."

Grandma snorted and turned to the window.

"Here comes Lizzie Baker," she commented. "I wonder does she ever step outside without an apron. She's coming here. Like as not she wants to borrow something. The borrowing Bakers' is what Father Davis always called them. Good morning, Lizzie," as a portly woman stepped into the hall. "Were you wanting something?"

"Just a pinch o' sody." From beneath her starched white apron Lizzie Baker produced a small tin cup. "I got all set to mix my biscuits," she continued, "and found there wasn't a mite o'sody in the house."

Handing the cup to Charman she sank down breathless in a convenient rocker. Miss Lizzie was always breathless. "Jim Bennett's went and got a brand new car," she announced importantly. "And according to some—" She lowered her voice, but Charman, who had started toward the kitchen, came back to say, a glint of fun hiding in her eyes: "And a new girl, Miss Lizzie?"

"Dear me, suz!" exclaimed the caller. "I thought you'd gone. Well, I'll say this, Charman: That girl ain't a patch on you for looks, if her clothes did come all the way from Boston. That hat now—(Sarah Bennett was braggin' that it came clear from Chicago and was bought by mail)—there's something almost sinful about such a hat. It's showy."

"But it's becoming," defended Charman. "You can't deny it." "Maybe 'tis. I ain't no special judge o' that; but don't you think her mouth's a mite too small to be real comfortable? As James Bennett used to say: 'It's not safe to trust a woman with a small mouth.' And she she ain't got your nose, either!"

"Charman's got the Chadwick nose," said Grandma proudly. "It's a handsome nose, male or female, if I do say it."

"Dear me!" said Charman, rubbing a thoughtful finger down the bridge of the feature under discussion, "I didn't know that noses possessed gender. But I'm glad it's handsome," she added as she turned away.

When she returned the two women ceased talking so abruptly that the girl felt sure she was the subject of their conversation. Miss Lizzie drew a deep breath, and proceeded to extricate her portly frame from the depths of the comfortable rocker.

"Well, I'm obliged," she said, reaching for the soda. "I don't know what I'd do without my neighbors. Some like livin' on a back road that ain't dusty; but I say, give me dust—and neighbors every time. I can't keep house without 'em."

"And she couldn't," agreed Grandma, when Miss Lizzie had closed the door behind her. "She's got no memory. None of the Bakers were extra strong in the upper story, as Father used to say; but she's a good soul and means well, which is almost better."

"Does she consider that I am bearing up cheerfully under my disappointment?" asked Charman with a smile.

1 Minute Ends Itch of ECZEMA

"SODA-SALVA" AMAZES DOCTORS

"Baby had terrible eczema. 'Soda-Salva' ended itching in 1 minute. Diseases soon left."—Mrs. J. Lawrence, St. Louis, Mo. Eczema, itchy skin, skin becomes clear, smooth. All Druggists.

"She didn't say," admitted Grandma, "but she's terribly mad at Sarah Bennett though they've been friends since they were girls. The airs that Sarah put on last night when Jim came to the social with that girl, were almost unbearable—according to Lizzie. She said that when she saw you sitting beside the minister's wife, just like a settled down old maid, her blood boiled in her veins."

Charman sank down in the chair. Miss Lizzie had just vacated, and laughed till the tears came.

"Poor dear old soul!" she said at last. "I didn't realize that I had such a champion. But I didn't feel the least bit like an old maid, Grandma; and as for Jim, he didn't look real happy, it seemed to me."

"And he'd better not be!" retorted Grandma with indignation. "He ought to be ashamed, if you ask me, running after a girl like that, and leaving you to sit with Mrs. Merry, for all the world as if you were a stranger!"

"But I love Mrs. Merry," assured Charman. "I wanted to sit with her. Come, Grandma! you mustn't be unreasonable. Jim isn't the only boy in town."

"Maybe not," admitted Grandma grudgingly, "but since George K's boys have left, he's the most likely. And hasn't he always beamed you out before?" she asked, as if that settled it.

Charman laughed.

"Perhaps for that very reason he yearns for some variety. Forget it, Grandma. It's the least of my troubles. Now listen. I've something far more important to talk about. You'd never in the wide world guess what I've done. If only I succeed in making a good impression, I've—I've taken a boarder!"

CHAPTER III.

For once Grandma forgot the passing. Her eyes left the window to rest upon her granddaughter in amazement and consternation.

Charman Davis, have you taken leave of your senses? Who'd get her dinner? She'd be a nuisance. I won't have her!"

"He isn't a she," responded Charman, enjoying to the full the old lady's indignation. "Perhaps he will be a nuisance, but if his boarding here will help the doctor—"

"What's Edward Howe got to do with it?" interrupted Grandma, giving a swift survey to the street to be sure that nothing of importance was going on.

"Everything," replied Charman, and proceeded to repeat most of what the old man had told her.

"Well," Grandma commented, leaning back in her chair and drawing a deep breath. "It—it beats the Dutch! How old is he, dearie? I hope he's old enough to know his business."

"The doctor called him a boy; but he knows his business, you may be sure, or he wouldn't trust us to him."

"Trust us to him!" echoed Grandma indignantly. "Do you suppose I'd let him lay a hand on me? Well, it'll be a great change for us, Charman. It's all of seventeen years since we've had a man in the house. I hope he's not untidy. Sometimes menfolk make a terrible lot of work around a place. And they eat hearty. You'll have to get him something hot for supper. Shall we give him the east chamber?"

What Is a Sleeper

Definition Given By Magazine Makes One Very Sleepy

The following "good-night story" is taken from the Southern Railway Magazine: A sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper is also the name given to a railway carriage in which a sleeper sleeps. A sleeper is also the name of the baulks of wood that hold the rails on which the sleeper runs while the sleeper sleeps. Therefore, while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper, the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper under the sleeper until the sleeper which carries the sleeper jumps the sleeper and wakes the sleeper under the sleeper on the sleeper; and there is no longer any sleep for the sleeper sleeping on the sleeper.

The Trade Mark

Two Irish private soldiers, walking along one of the main thoroughfares in Glasgow, observed the notice, in gigantic type, in a shop window, "Butter! Butter!! Butter!!! (Pat, said Mike, 'what is the meaning of them big strokes after the words?'" "Och, ye ignoramus!" said Pat. "Sure, they are meant for shillelaghs to show it's rare Irish butter!"

Character Through Letters

Many Written By William Ewart Gladstone Show Real Man

One may gain a large amount of knowledge of the character of a public man by means of his speeches and actions. But the best insight into the real man is derived from his private letters, wherein he may unburden his thoughts without deference to political complexities.

Lord Gladstone, the youngest son of William Ewart Gladstone, has presented to the British Museum his father's collection of letters. These, it may be presumed, are letters he received in reply to letters he had written to others, and from them much may be learned about the man himself.

The letters have been indexed, and the index contains the names of twelve thousand persons, among whom were such correspondents as King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the Duke of York (now King George), Bismarck, Kruger, Li Hung Chang, Napoleon III., the great Duke of Wellington, Garibaldi, Browning, Tennyson, Macaulay, Dickens, Thackeray, Wordsworth, Huxley, Bulwer-Lytton, Florence Nightingale, and many hundreds of others famous in history.

All this vast material was placed at the disposal of John Morley, who wrote the monumental Gladstone biography. The task of writing such a work might well have daunted the stoutest heart.

Gladstone led a full life. He was the storm centre of British politics for about fifty years. He had to prepare thousands of speeches and undertake an almost crushing burden of public duties of national importance. How he found time to write so many letters, or at least to dictate them, although he must have written a large proportion of them himself by hand, is hard to understand.

Had he lived in the days of the general use of the telephone, it is doubtful that he would have written so many. But the nation would have been deprived of much correspondence that will be gazed upon reverently hundreds of years hence.

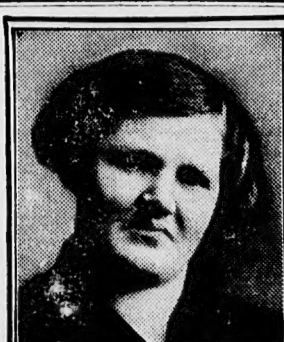

Commercializing the Radio

People Get Tired Of Program Consisting of Advertisements

The fact is being widely deplored that undue commercial use is being made of the radio. Under the pretence of giving a concert on the air—an hour of radio—most of the time is taken up by announcements and propaganda of all kinds. Listeners in bear with abuses of this kind for a certain time in the hope that, finally, they will hear something that is enjoyable and instructive; but in many instances they indignantly shut off the radio. In these circumstances the Government of the Province of Quebec is to be heartily congratulated upon its initiative which assures radio fans one hour of music and instruction on two evenings of the week.

Our Tremendous Wood Consumption

The total quantity of wood utilized in Canada per year is estimated to be equivalent to 2,708,070,000 cubic feet of standing timber, of the value of $378,093,600.

Soviets Safeguarding

Dairy Produce Supply

Russia Has Declared Slaying Of Cattle A Crime

A shortage of meat and threatened diminution of Russian livestock of all sorts have inspired the Soviets to adopt extraordinary measures to conserve domestic animals and safeguard future meat and dairy produce supplies.

Fast disappearing cattle henceforth will enjoy protection akin to that afforded children in some nations. The underlying idea is discontinuance of the alarmingly prevalent practice among the peasantry of eating all their livestock. This is partly due to the absence of other varieties of food in many villages, but the government considers it principally a malicious and cunning counter-revolutionary activity.

Being hostile to the farm collectivization program which is now spreading over Soviet Russia like a prairie fire, those peasants still possessing cattle endeavor to feast on them before joining the collectives and, incidentally, deprive the new form of agriculture of the livestock that is imperatively required to supply meat and dairy products to the evergrowing cities.

When the peasant joins the kolhose, or collective farm, he contributes his tools, cattle and other wealth to the farm commune. Being devoid of altruism, he eats up as much of his wealth as possible before joining the kolhose, which leaves the collective that much the poorer, but even more gravely it reduces the live stock wealth of the Soviet Union.

The commissariat of agriculture has termed cattle slaughtering a violation of the criminal code and the grounds for the expropriation of the property of such peasants as are found guilty. The central kolhose organization rules provide that peasants killing live stock before applying for admission into a kolhose shall be barred.

Inasmuch as individualistic farming is becoming rapidly an economic impossibility and membership in a kolhose or sovkhose the only hope of the farmer, this order is of fundamental importance.

Persistent Asthma. A most distressing characteristic of this debilitating disease, is the persistence with which recurring attacks come to sap away strength and leave the sufferer in a state of almost continual exhaustion. No wiser precaution can be taken than that of keeping at hand a supply of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, famous as the most potent remedy for eradicating the disease from the tender air passages.

Preventing Illness

Doctors Of The Future May Devote More Time To Preventive Than To Cure

In late years the tendency of medical practice has been steadily away from the old family doctor towards specialization in particular lines of medicine. The campaign carried on by the Metropolitan Life and other insurance companies to encourage preventive medicine in preference to curative medicine, may bring about the old-time dominance of the general practitioner. But if he does become as popular as formerly, it is said that he will fill a new role. He will devote most of his time to keeping his patients well instead of merely attending them when they are sick. The whole basis of this movement is the growing practice of physical medical examinations every year or every six months. It is contended that not only will a periodic health examination check cancer, tuberculosis and epidemic, but that it will also become the first practical step in the salvation of the general practitioner from extinction.—Ottawa Journal.

High Price To Pay

Little Mary, who had fallen ill, begged for a kitten.

It was found that an operation was necessary for the child's cure and that she must go to the hospital. Her mother promised that if she were very brave she would have the very finest kitten to be found.

As Mary was recovering from the influence of the anesthetic, the nurse heard her muttering:

"It's a rotten way to get a kitten."

"Most of the tragedies in this world are caused by the actions of people who are neither wholly right nor wholly wrong."

This Wasteful Age

Smoke-Laden Air Contains Tons Of Combustible Solids

Enough wasted fuel hangs in the smoke-laden air of some modern cities to stoke the furnaces of their electric light plants a quarter of the time every year. In New York, which admittedly is not one of the smokiest cities of the country, measurements and analyses of atmospheric pollution have led to some startling revelations. The dustcloud that hovers over a great city, if precipitated, would involve the removal of tons of solids, the larger part of which would be combustible. Considerably more than half of this wasted material is carbon, whose origin is coal, gasoline, motor oils and other substances used or usable as fuel. The efficiency of which we boast is but relative. Perhaps in after years ours will be known as the wasteful age.—Detroit News.

DO NOT LET

YOUR BABY SUFFER

Baby's Own Tablets Are Just the Help He Needs

At the cost of a few cents every mother can add to her own happiness and to her children's safety, for, while the cost of Baby's Own Tablets is small the value of these Tablets to every home where there are little ones is exceedingly great.

What mother does not suffer when her little ones are suffering—when they are undergoing the tortures of the teething period; the agonies of constipation and indigestion, or the miseries brought on by colds or simple fevers? What mother can sleep when her child does not sleep? She can banish these troubles, however, and in banishing them she is making a happy household, for the happy child makes everyone else happy.

To banish childhood suffering Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home. They are recognized the world over as an absolutely safe and efficient remedy for little ones. They are a mild but thorough laxative and through their action on the stomach and bowels never fail to banish any of the minor ills of little ones. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Robot

Enumerating Machines Make Census Taking An Easy Job

Next April more than 100,000 enumerators will begin asking questions concerning the population of the United States, which not long ago could only be answered and tabulated in more than a year. Now, in a month, there will be completed all the facts required by the state about more than 120,000,000 people. Enumerating machines will be used which can tabulate cards carrying as many as sixty items, at the rate of nearly 25,000 an hour. These marvellous Robots can assort cards by age, by sex, and by race, at the rate of 125,000 a day.

Little Helps For This Week

Speedy Radio Program

Travelled 20,000 Miles In About One-Eighth Of Second

A radio program travelled approximately 20,000 miles in about one-eighth of a second.

The program was broadcast from W2XAF, the experimental short wave station of the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N.Y., picked up by VK2ME a short wave station in Sydney, Australia, and rebroadcast back to Schenectady, where it was picked up and transferred to WGY the General Electric Company's regular station, and again rebroadcast.

Company engineers said it was the first time to their knowledge such a feat had been performed over so great a distance.

Needless Pain!

Nowadays, people take Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Aspirin tablets are absolutely harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to an Aspirin tablet for relief. Aspirin is always available, and it never fails to help. Familiarise yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

MILO NEWS

(From our Own Correspondent)

The Milo U. F. W. A. Ladies St.
Patrick's Day afternoon tea held in Milo turned out to be a very successful affair. Everybody was there and a nice little sum was cleared which is to be used to keep up expenses of the local.

The joint meeting of the two locals held at Mr. Bertrand's new house brought out a big crowd and several new members joined the locals. The next joint meeting will be held Saturday evening, April 2nd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Burk, another place where there is plenty of room for a big turn out. A debate, on the new school act, is booked for that evening between members of the two locals and a hot time is expected.

Another new garage is in the making in Milo. A Mr. D. Marshall, who used to farm southwest of town, is changing the Wegner livery barn into a garage.

Harry Deltz and wife have returned from their winter's trip in the warmer regions and Harry is again preparing to put in another big acreage in spite of the wheat price.

Mrs. Milo Munroe and daughter, Mrs. Skelleg, have returned from their winter quarters at Victoria, B.
C.

The last meeting, held by the Marquis Municipal council, was, according to reports, extremely lively. It appears that some of the Queenstown citizens are dissatisfied with the recent vote that transferred the municipal office to Milo, and a Queenstown delegation, headed by a Bassano lawyer, appeared before the council meeting and pointed out some irregularities about the recent election and demanded that another election should be held. However, the councillors failed to see it that way and told the delegation that the majority vote had declared for Milo and Milo it would be.

A small fleet of boats big and small are ready to sail the lake when navigation opens up. Some of these boats are owned by Milo and some by Queenstown citizens. One of the Milo sea captains now comes forward with a proposition that the question of the municipal office be settled by the two fleets engaging in a naval battle next summer. Our friend has not stated yet what kind of ammunition should be used in the fight whether cannon, machine guns, bombs or the combatants simply try to drown each other. At any rate such a battle would be worth seeing and if one dollar entrance fee was charged he thinks it would bring enough money for the park improvement, which was voted down at the last election.
